FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Axis Technical Group, Inc. named Microsoft Gold Certified Partner

ANAHEIM, CA – October 29, 2007 – Axis Technical Group Inc. has been named a Microsoft Gold Level Certified Partner in three key disciplines: Custom Development Solutions, Data Management Solutions and Networking Infrastructure Solutions. Axis Technical Group's dedicated team of Architects and Developers, along with a lengthy history of success in software development projects led to this certification, which represents the highest level of competence and expertise with Microsoft technologies. The Gold Level Partner also ensures the closeness of the working relationship between Axis Technical Group and Microsoft.

"Our team has worked hard at developing state-of-the-art custom software solutions utilizing the Microsoft .Net platform and this new level of partnership with Microsoft further cements our expertise in these technologies," says Michael Valdes, Axis President. He adds that, "We are dedicated to the ongoing training of our staff and foster an environment that encourages our engineers to pursue education and training in all of the latest and emerging technologies."

Axis Technical Group offers custom software and database development, as well as management and maintenance of new and existing enterprise applications and environments. The Axis technology team includes members based at the Southern California Headquarters as well as at the company's, Monterrey Mexico, and Pune, India locations.
